Photinia fraseri Red Robin

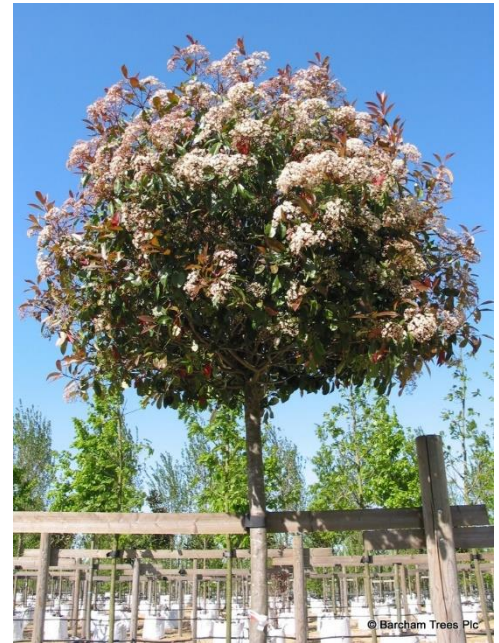

Originally from New Zealand, Photinia fraseri Red Robin is a versatile evergreen suited to the UK environment; it makes a fine tree with a rounded growth habit which responds well to pruning.

The Red Robin's stand out feature is the vibrant red new shoots in spring, which contrast with the white blossom – unusual in an evergreen. The bright new leaves change to a deep, glossy green as they mature and are complemented with small round red berries in the summer. The RHS has given this tree an Award of Merit.

Photinia fraseri is available as a standard clear-stem tree, a multistem, umbrella, fully feathered tree, in pleached form, as an evergreen espalier screen and as an instant hedge.

Ideal Conditions: Chalk-free, moist but well-drained soil, sunny to semi-shaded location

Maximum Height: 6 metres
